SUMMARY

In my most recent project, I worked on third party integration for a real-time web app service called DivvyUpTours. DivvyUpTours is a Rails and JavaScript web app that lets users combine the adventure of a Divvy bike ride with sightseeing in Chicago. Using the Divvy API, I was able to integrate real-time information on the nearest Divvy bike stations, along with the number of available bikes and bike docks.

Currently, I am seeking a full-time role as a junior software engineer.

EDUCATION

Dev Bootcamp, Chicago, IL

Mar. 2014 – Sept. 2014

- Dev Bootcamp is an immersive 19-week training program for web developers, specializing in algorithmic Ruby and Rails.
- Dev Bootcamp was the next step in my career because I wanted to hone the skills that allow me to be both creative & logical. Throughout my time at DBC, I gathered the technical skills to become an effective junior web developer, engaged in engineering empathy & agile development, & most importantly, learned how to learn.
